MR. H. A. IRVINE.

Mr. H. A. Irvine, founder of H. A. Irvine & Sons Pty. Ltd., passed away last Saturday evening after a brief illness of one week. The deceased who was 84 years of age, came to Australia 60 years ago and commenced business in Buhmba. Forty years ago the Wynnum business was established and later formed into a company of which the deceased remained chairman until his death.

The late Mr. Irvine who was of a kind retiring nature, leaves a multitude of friends, by all of whom he was held in highest esteem.

He leaves a widow and two sons, Messrs. S. H. and H. A. Irvine jr.

The service at the Gospel Hall prior to the funeral was conducted by Mr. Forbes-McLeod, and at the graveside by Mr. Lennox.

OBITUARY

MR. GEORGE IRVINE

The death occurred last week of one of the district's early business men in the person of Mr. George Irvine of 35 Gordon Parade, Manly.

The late Mr. Irvine, who was 70 years of age, was born in Brisbane, and was married Miss Emily Nock before coming to Wynnum to reside in 1914. During World War I he and his wife went to Victoria for a number of years where they took up residence in Melbourne. Upon their return to Wynnum the late Mr. Irvine conducted a carrying business which he ran successfully for about 25 years.

After disposing of this interest he joined up with a transport venture in Toowoomba and then later entered the sports retail trade and was a member of the firm of Smith Bros. Sports Store in the Valley for 10 years, until his retirement about 12 months ago.

The late Mr. Irvine led a useful life apart from his business activities and was a valued member of the community. He was warden of St. Peter's Church of England, Wynnum, and followed both Rugby League and soccer.

After a service held in St. John's Cathedral, Ann Street, Brisbane, last Saturday morning, the cortege moved off for the East Chapel of the Crematorium at Mt. Thompson.

A widow and two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Simpson and Mrs. M. Phillips, of Wynnum North, survive.

VALE — MAL IRWIN, SENIOR

One of the largest gatherings of Rugby League identities and supporters ever in this district attended St. Peter's Anglican Church, Manly, on Tuesday 30th November, for the funeral of the late Mal Irwin, senior.

The attendance was a tribute to the esteem and respect Mr. Irwin gained through his association with the Wynnum-Manly Rugby League Football Club since its inception in 1951.

With his untimely and sudden passing, Wynnum-Manly Club has lost a true friend, a man who has done as much for Rugby League in this district as any man could do.

Mal Irwin was a player in the first Wynnum-Manly side which met Eastern Suburbs at the Brisbane Cricket Ground on 7th April, 1951. At the end of his playing career he was appointed secretary of the junior body, at a time when the club was in its infancy and just finding its feet.

In 1955 he was elected secretary of the senior body of the Wynnum-Manly Rugby League Football Club, a position he held until his retirement in 1968. He remains the only man to have served in the same executive position on both the junior and senior bodies.

Mal Irwin was unanimously declared a Life Member in 1961, at 36 years of age, the youngest man to have this honour bestowed on him in the history of the club.

He served as the club's delegate to the Brisbane Rugby League for many years, managed Brisbane Rugby League representative teams, was secretary at the time of the formation of the area's satellite club, Redland Bay, and gave strong support and assistance with the forming of the Wynnum-Manly Old Boys of Rugby League Association.

From 1959 up to the building of the clubhouse, Mal Irwin organised socials and activities for players and supporters alike at his own home. He gave board and lodgings to players of the like of John and Trevor Gleeson, and as a mark of their respect and gratitude the entire Gleeson family journeyed from Toowoomba to attend the funeral.

He was a member of the committee responsible for signing Wynnum-Manly's first international, Lionel Morgan, who also paid his respects at St. Paul's Church, and John Wittenburg.

When the Club first went into Hotel fund raising, Mal Irwin was the organiser, and set up financial avenues by which the club paid players and raised money for land purchases and building projects.

He was a trustee of the Wynnum-Manly Rugby League Football Club up to the time of his death, and was responsible in no small way for the procurement of Kougari Oval, and the securing of the loan to construct the clubhouse.

His record service as secretary for 14 years, his devotion and effort to the sport of Rugby League in this district, his help and assistance to young sportsmen throughout the suburbs, is a testimony that no words can enlarge upon.

From players past and present, supporters and committeemen, the junior and senior bodies all extend to his family their deepest sympathy.

SPORTSMAN'S DEATH

1.12.1976

MR. "MAL" IRWIN

With the death last weekend of Mr. Malcolm (Mal) Irwin, the district has lost one of its best-known sporting figures and a keen supporter of the Wynnum-Manly Rugby Club in particular.

The late Mal Irwin had filled the office of secretary to the Seagulls for a lengthy period and, as a mark of the esteem in which he was held by members and players alike, was conferred with life membership of the club.

He was also a valued member of the Wynnum R.S.L. Club.

There was a most representative concourse, comprising family members, sporting bodies, businessmen and residents at the funeral service at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Manly, yesterday (Tuesday) morning at which the Rector, Rev. F. W. Wilson, officiated.

The cortege later moved off to the Hemmant Lawn Cemetery. 1.12.76

Music legend to be given final farewell

19.11.2014

WYNNUM music legend Allan Jeffries has died at the age of 86.

Born in 1928, Mr Jeffries moved to Wynnum with his family in 1929.

He was a patron of the Wynnum Musical Society, a life member of Savoyards, a life member of the Waterloo Bay Leisure Centre and played tennis for the Wynnum Tennis Association for more than 60 years.

A pioneer for music and arts, Mr Jeffries was the first president of the Wynnum Eisteddfod committee.

During his career, he competed in many eisteddfods, winning Queensland Tenor Champion of Champions 12 times.

He played the lead role in Savoyards' first musical, The Mikado, in 1961.

His funeral is today, November 19, at 10am at St Peters Anglican Church, 77 Charlotte St, Wynnum.

It is with regret that we record the death of a well-known Wynnum resident, Mr. "Jock" Jamieson, of Florence Street, Wynnum, whose funeral took place on Monday.

Jock will be remembered as an untiring worker for the Australian Labor Party and was one of the oldest members of the Wynnum branch.

In union activities, Mr. Jamieson was keenly interested in the meat industry, which was his calling, and was a delegate for that union.

In sporting fields his activities were directed chiefly to the athletic field and was interested in the Wynnum Gordon Club and Athletic Clubs.

VALE RIC JAMES

Wynnum Manly Yacht Club's (WMYC) oldest club member, Richard (Ric) James, passed away on 7 November 2023 at the age of 95. Ric had been a member of WMYC since 1986, and continued sailing his boat Thanet well into his 90s.

Ric was a qualified naval architect, and worked as a consulting naval architect in Queensland during his 45-year career.

Ric designed more than 150 vessels, including Quiksilver's legendary MV Indies Trader (a diving and survey vessel), state government ships, the Stradbroke Island ferry, and many small tugs and barges operating in Queensland, the Northern Territory, and the South Pacific. Ric also designed the 'yellow submarine' glass-bottom vessels used for reef sightseeing, and the renowned South Passage sail training schooner – often seen in the waters of Moreton Bay – which has gone on to train thousands of young sailors.

Ric designed and built his own boat, Thanet, over 30 years ago for coastal cruising and the shallows of Moreton Bay. Ric maintained Thanet's secret weapon was her lifting keel, which always provided a little extra speed when going downwind.

The Late Mr. H. Jefferies

The death of Mr. Harry Jefferies, of Mountjoy Terrace, Wynnum Central, who was fatally injured in an accident at Morningside last week, comes as a most poignant shock to the many friends to whom he was known. Always of a happy disposition, he had endeared himself to all with whom he contacted. Having conducted the business of S. H. Jefferies & Co., Tea Merchants, East Brisbane, which was previously managed by his father, the deceased had made a host of friends who will always remember him with his favourite bicycle laden with parcels of tea which he delivered all over Brisbane and Suburbs.

An ardent cyclist from his youth, Mr. Jefferies was also an ardent angler, and was always most happy at these two sports and his home.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Harry and John, and two daughters, Phyllis (Mrs. S. R. Palmer), and Valma. To his family and relatives the "Herald" extends sincerest sympathy in their great loss.

Digger Passes

On

On March 15, at his residence, Berrima Street, Wynnum Central, Jack Johnson, aged 67 years, passed away, after a long illness.

The late Jack Johnson came to live in Wynnum in 1919, after he was returned from the 1st World War badly gassed and suffering further war disabilities. He followed the building trade until 10 years ago.

He was a member of the Totally and Permanently Disabled Soldiers' Association and a life member of the Incapacitated Soldiers' Association.

The deceased is survived by his widow, who is very well-known locally as Nurse Johnson and daughter Betty, now Mrs. J. McGuirk, of Clermont, and grandsons David and Bradley.

His funeral left his late residence for the Bulimba Cemetery on Saturday, March 17.

Obituary

The death occurred in the Princess Alexandra Hospital of Mr. Albert Leslie ("Bert") Johnson, of 531 Tingal Road, Wynnum North, where he came to live in retirement about seven years ago.

Prior to taking up residence in the Bayside, the late Mr. Johnson, who was 78, had been engaged in rural pursuits on his property, known as "Boyan-da", at Barney View in the Rathdowney and Beaudesert districts, where he spent the greater part of his life.

Bert Johnson was known to many as a result of his conscientious attention to country residents as the mail carrier and operator of the telephone exchange at Barney View for many years.

Although having resided in the Wynnum district for seven years, the late Bert Johnson had endeared himself to many. His whole life had been centred on looking to the care and welfare of his fellow men and had been a most active worker as driver for the local "Meals on Wheels" organisation for some years.

He delivered his last meals to Bayside recipients only a few days before his sudden passing.

In 1923 he married Rosina ("Tot") Davis and last year the couple celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary. Mrs. Johnson, one daughter, Mrs. Hazel Campbell, of Adam Street, Wynnum, and one grandchild, Meryl, survive.

Following a service in the Wynnum Baptist Church on Tuesday, March 26, interment was made in the Hemmant Lawn Cemetery.

DEATH OF MARY J. JOHNSON

Late MARY J. JOHNSON.

Brief reference has already been made to the passing recently of Mrs. Mary J. Johnson, wife of Mr. William (Joe) Johnson, of 99 Drayton Terrace, Wynnum.

The late Mrs. Johnson was born at Taroom, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kehl, a well-known pioneering family of those parts. She came to live in Wynnum after her marriage 35 years ago and had resided in Drayton Terrace for the whole of that time.

A woman of many talents, the late Mrs. Johnson became a professional knitter and an exponent of the crochet needle. She became so expert and proficient that her entry in the crafts—her entry in the "Make It and Wear It Yourself" won the award at the Royal International Show. The outfit comprised sweater, gloves, bag and hat to match, while no less than 10,000 tiny white beads were knitted in diamond fashion.

Her entry won the acclaim of the judges and experts alike and the Wool

Board acquired the outfit to place it on exhibition in the window of the Agent General's Office in London, where it remained, causing great interest and attracting much attention for 16 months.

Later on, Mrs. Johnson opened a knitting and crochet school, mostly for the benefit of children. Also at night, she conducted a ladies' class. Throughout the year she held mannequin parades with her pupils wearing the garments they had made and the proceeds of these parades were always handed over to charity.

Not only did her pupils come from Wynnum and Brisbane areas, but one, a young lady, living in New Zealand, received her knitting and crochet lessons by correspondence. When the garment was completed, it was sent to Mrs. Johnson for judging and then returned comments regarding its making and finish.

The late Mrs. Johnson had acted as R.N.A. judge for three shows in succession in Brisbane and had also judged at a number of country shows including those held at Marburg, Goombungee, Haden and Clifton.

Her talents were almost limitless and a photographic business she opened in Wynnum flourished until an illness forced her to close the doors and take things a little easier. She wrote and published a book—"Thirty-Six Teenage Doll Clothes", which found a ready sale and this was an achievement of which she was indeed proud. Then, right at the end of her career, the week she became ill and did not recover, she managed to complete her second book and have it ready for publication. However, she was not spared long enough to see it go into print. However, her husband and son took the manuscript to the publishers and the book will come off the press shortly. It is entitled "Mary's Nursery Rhymes".

Mary Johnson was an unselfish person and one who had an abundance of energy which she used to assist in outside works. For a number of years she played with the Wynnum Ladies Croquet Club and also helped on the Ambulance committee. In earlier years she was in charge of the running of the tuck shop at the Wynnum High School.

Her passing was marked with regret in many circles throughout the district and the wealth of floral tributes displayed at her funeral service in St. Peter's Church of England, evidenced the high esteem in which she was held.

Internment took place at the Hemmant Cemetery on July 26, where a large concourse of people from all walks of life paid their last respects and passed on condolences to the husband and only son, Mr. William J. C. Johnson.

Old resident's death

24.1.73 Late MRS. ROSA JOHNSON.

The death occurred on December 30 of a well-known old Wynnum resident in the person of Mrs. Rosa Johnson, of 96 Bride Street.

Born at South Brisbane in 1887, the late Mrs. Johnson came to live in Wynnum 66 years ago.

In her earlier days, she was a keen cricket and Rugby League enthusiast — her sons and grand-children taking an active part in both sports.

For the last 2½ years, she had been an inmate of the Sea View Convalescent Home. Her funeral took place to the Hemmant Lawn Cemetery on January 2, when six of her grand-children acted as pall-bearers.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by two daughters and four sons, one son — Mr. P. C. Johnson — having pre-deceased her. There are also 16 grand-children and 23 great grand-children.

TRUSTEES of Clem Jones's estate will bear the responsibility of carrying on the multi-millionaire's Bayside business interests.

Among Mr Jones's plans, before his death on Saturday, was a further expansion of Shangri-La Gardens reception lounge and motel in Wynnum West.

Motel manager Valmae Richardson, who is also a director of the Clem Jones Foundation, said the motel would be further expanded as planned by Mr Jones before his death.

"Wynnum was a very big part of his life ... he bought land here when no-one appreciated the sheer beauty of the area," Mrs Richardson said.

The 89-year-old former Brisbane Lord Mayor owned several Bayside properties, including Shangri-La Gardens, reputed to be valued at $10.6 million.

Mark Speakman, of Wynnum Manly Marching Association, said Mr Jones had broad business interests but his main concern was helping the disadvantaged.

"His personal interest was homeless kids and that seemed to be his primary interest in the later years," he said.

MP119460

■ Better times ... Clem Jones, left, had a soft spot for disadvantaged people, says Mark Speakman.

Mr Speakman said he and Mr Jones were planning to combine their neighbouring Ropely Rd properties for a housing development before his death.

Mrs Richardson said Mr Jones hinted about his mortality at a Christmas party he hosted for 440 guests last month.

"He said 'I'm not having a 90th birthday' and so we all sang happy birthday to him," she said.

Foundation chairman David Muir said he was ready for the task ahead.

"It's an awesome responsibility but I'm supported by good people ... it's a team effort and I can say with some confidence it's business as usual," he said.

Mr Muir said a "substantial amount" would go towards Mr Jones's republican fighting fund but would not say how much was in the foundation coffers.

"It's multi-millions and it was Clem's wish to preserve it for the good of other people," he said.

Foodbank Queensland and the Leukaemia Foundation were some of the charities supported by Mr Jones, plus sporting clubs.

Mr Muir said Mr Jones's brother died of leukaemia which could account for some of his actions.

A state funeral for Mr Jones will be held at 11am today in Brisbane.

VALE REX WILLIAM ELLIOTT JONES

Rex was born at 50 Henry Street, Wynnum on the 22nd November, 1925, the second son of Thomas and Elsie Jones, the other children being Gordon, Olive, Gwen and Trevor.

The family moved to 180 Ernest Street, Manly in 1931 and all the family attended the Manly State School where Rex sat for the Scholarship examination in 1939. He had several jobs such as a Sawmill hand, office boy for a Law firm and a badge maker.

He was then sent by 'Manpower' to work at Forsyth Rope in East Brisbane. He joined the Air Training Corps in 1943 when he turned 18 in November '43, he applied to join the R.A.A.F. in 1944. He was stationed at several bases and was even sent to help farmers harvest the peanut crop. Rex was one of the top Morse Code senders and receivers able to read and write down 30 words per minute and was made a Wireless-Air Gunner then a Radio Operator which started his love of radio and all things electrical. He also trained several 'ace' American airmen in aircraft recognition.

Rex always had an interest in making model planes and when the Australian Film industry was making the film 'Smithy' he helped make the model of his lost plane that flew into the distance at the end of the film. He was discharged just before the war ended as he was 'surplus to requirements' as were many trainees. On Anzac Day 1944 Rex and his older brother Gordon played the Last Post at the Manly Lota RSL Anzac Day service, Gordon continued playing at the Manly Dawn Service and 8 o'clock for over 50 years. After Rex joined the RAAF and was discharged he started playing the Last Post at the Wynnum RSL Dawn Service for nearly 50 years. He also played at other venues in the state and locally at Lota State School and Manly.

He started an apprenticeship as a carpenter with the Department of Housing and built many houses locally and in the Brisbane area.

Rex met his wife to be Val on 15th August 1945, (VP Day), Rex had gone around to Val's place to see her brother Doug, as they were trying to form a band to march through the streets of Wynnum, Manly and Lota. In May 1947 Rex and Val started going out together and got engaged on January 1, 1949. He then went to work at the Long Range Weapon Project at Woomera in difficult conditions. He repaired many of his fellow workers radios with the help of Manly local businessman Ron Schmidt from Manly Radio sending parts to him. He sent most of his wages home to his mother for banking as a means to buy a home when he married Val. They were married 7th January 1950 at the Manly Methodist Church and had the reception at the Manly Lota RSL Hall in Melville Terrace. They purchad land at Whites Road, Manly and built their first home and had two sons Paul and Gregory, they sold the house in 1955 and built another in Hindes St. Lota where they lived until 1990 and then moved to Russell Close, Wynnum West.

In 1955 Rex became Bandmaster of the Wynnum Manly Citizen's Band , winning places in contests in 1956 and 1957. 1958 saw him become Bandmaster of the 9th Battalion band for many years and went to the Army School of Music in 1963, was Bandmaster at Nudgee and Iona Colleges with the bands winning many contests including the Wynnum Manly Eisteddfod...he was very proud of his students.

He will be sadly missed.

Editor's note....Rex 'the quiet achiever' was a valuable member of the Manly Lota RSL Sub Branch and will be missed by all...with his many talents no doubt he is busy organising a concert at the moment..in another place...

Obituary: Bill Jones

THE Bayside's own "Mr Garbo", Bill Jones, died recently from cancer which was diagnosed nine months ago.

His son Jeff said Bill had been staying at the Greenslopes Hospital but was moved to Wynnum hospital the day before he died.

"He always said that he wanted to die in Wynnum, not Greenslopes so I guess maybe he knew something," Jeff said.

Before his retirement in July last year, Bill was a familiar figure strolling the local foreshore.

For 15 years, it was his job to keep clean a 10km strip between Wynnum North and Lota and through his thoroughness and enthusiasm, he earned the admiration and deep respect of his peers.

Trundling along behind the weekend picnicers with a stick, bag and bicycle, the Brisbane City Council Parks Department employee worked from Monday to Friday and always stayed until the job was done — no matter how late.

At the end of each day he would ride "Old Bess" the 15km back to his Emsworth Street home.

During his time spent on the foreshore, Bill made many friends and always had a spare moment to give children a push on the swings, chat to an elderly gent or reprimand the 'plonkos' for swearing in public.

Bill died at the age of 63.

After a long illness a member of the Order of the Sisters of Nazareth passed on to her eternal reward last Monday. She was Sister Joseph of the Sacred Heart, who came to Nazareth House, Wynnum, 24 years ago, and was known for her sincere, kindly nature in the carrying out of the work of the Order. Her funeral took place last Tuesday, the service being conducted by Father Aloysius of St. Lawrence's Monastery. The Archbishop of Brisbane, Sir James Duhig, took part in the service in the Sanctuary and read prayers at the graveside in the private cemetery at Nazareth House.

OBITUARY

VICTOR FREDRICK JUPPENLATZ

It is with regret we record the passing of a well-known identity, Mr. Victor Fredrick Juppenlatz, of Raeburn Street, Manly.

The deceased, who was industrial officer of the Queensland Railways, passed away suddenly on Thursday last at Greenslopes Repatriation Hospital. After a service at St. Matthew's Church, Holland Park, his funeral left for Mt. Thompson Crematorium.

A member of Ithaca Royal Arch Chapter, Mr. Juppenlatz, much loved husband of Nonie, is also survived by an adult family — Leonie, Noel, and Morris, all of Brisbane.

Obituary

Mr Allan Kane

MR ALLAN Kane of Lota, who died on Sunday, May 3, at Mount Olivet Hospital, will long be remembered by the staff of Edgells as a man of good humour and friendship.

ALLAN Kane... as he will be remembered — a man who enjoyed life.

Over the 20 odd years he worked at Edgells, Allan established a strong bond of friendship with his workmates and bosses.

He began work at Edgells when the factory was owned by the Hargreaves family, working on the beetroot line before becoming the cleaner a short while later.

He maintained that position until he took ill on his Christmas holidays last year and was admitted to the Mater Hospital for two months receiving numerous visitors every day.

Allan was reportedly doing fine and wanting to return to his home shortly before his death whilst rehabilitating at Mount Olivet Hospital.

Laughter was one of the greatest joys he brought to his fellow workers at Edgells; always willing to stop and chat and relate humorous stories which had happened to him.

Allan was an avid Elvis Presley fan and befriended Ross Henderson (who is an entertainer in the tradition of Elvis) and his wife Sandra and family.

Ross and Sandra knew him for 24 years, taking him with them on holidays and concert tours.

The Henderson children came to regard him as an uncle and delighted in seeing him when Ross and Sandra brought him home from hospital for weekends occasionally.

His home contained many original albums and a video copy of Elvis' first movie.

Allan was also a very keen Citizen Band radio operator and talked to people and friends from around the world.

His surviving niece, Cheryl Vaughan cared for him dearly whilst he was in hospital.

He took to his death a dream to visit Elvis' home town of Graceland and to see his idol's grave.

Allan Kane (August 1924-May 1987) will be sadly missed by his family, friends and his workmates — they gave him respect and he gave them his love.

THE following passage is a tribute to Allan Kane by Mrs June Anderson who retired from Edgells last year:

FROM all your old pals, Allan, this is farewell from the bosses and workers at Gordon Edgell. You quietly passed on, not saying goodbye and all we can think of is why, Allan why? For 21 years you scrubbed and you cleaned — you were the best cleaner that we'd ever seen.

From production to office, the canteen, the lot, one thing is certain, you won't be forgot.

You swept and you polished, you cleaned and you mopped and a lot of the time some teasing you copped.

But your work was perfection, everything shone.

No-one could do better now that you've gone.

Long in our memories you always will be, your workmates and friends where-ever we be —

OBITUARY

Mr. ERNIE KENWAY

A very impressive service at the East Chapel, Mount Thompson, on Tuesday, August 8, marked the passing of another of the 1914-18 Diggers, when Ernie Kenway was laid to his well-earned rest. The service was conducted by Rev. Eglington, himself a Digger of World War I.

Tribute was paid to their comrade by members of the Wynnum Sub-branch, the T.P.I. and Limbless Association, and a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Ernie was a man who held the respect and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. In spite of his limbless state and his recent bouts of severe illness, he was never heard to complain. He carried it all with courage and fortitude.

He was a good husband, a good father, and a good citizen. A fine sportsman, who made his presence felt at the game of bowls and in the administration of the game.

His advice and work have helped to build both the Wynnum and Wynnum Services Bowling Clubs. He will be sadly missed by his comrades and his family.

Manly sport identity dies

KEVIN Joseph Kelly, of Mountjoy Terrace, Manly, died in the Princess Alexandra hospital on Monday, March 31.

He was 58 years of age. Born in Sydney he resided at Manly for 34 years.

A career public servant Mr Kelly retired three years ago because of ill-health.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs Serra, of Portugal (Glenda) and Mrs H. Williams, of Toowoomba (Myra).

Following a service at St. John Vianney Catholic Church at 2.30pm last Wednesday, the cortege moved to the Hemmant Lawn Cemetery.

The late Mr Kelly

Mr. Kelly's services were regularly called upon as Master of Ceremonies at Darling Point Sailing Club functions and at football, cricket and numerous other sporting functions in the Bayside district.

MR. JOHN KENWRICK.

The death occurred last week, at the age of 82 years, of a well-known resident and business man in the person of Mr. John Kenwick, of 22 Peranga Street, Manly.

The deceased gentleman was born at Pialba, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Kenwick, and became apprenticed as a cutter in the clothing trade at a Brisbane factory.

It was over 40 years ago that he opened his own clothing factory in Stanley Street, South Brisbane.

With the steady advancement of Brisbane and its environs, the late Mr. Kenwick, with great vision and foresight, decided to get away from the immediate city area and began his factory in Glenora Street, Wynnum, in 1949, a business which still operates as a partnership with his three sons and employs upwards of 45 local girls.

Until his retirement eight years ago, the late Mr. Kenwick played an active part in the business. A keen angler, he had his own boat and undertook many fishing trips on Moreton Bay.

His funeral took place at the East Chapel of the Mt. Thompson Crematorium last Wednesday. He is survived by his widow—formerly Miss Vera Thompson, of Milton, three sons, Messrs. Stan (Annerley), Cec and George, both of Wynnum, and two daughters—Mrs. Rose Bool (Lindum) and Mrs. Olive Westlake (Manly).

Local leaders left a legacy

By DESIREE DUNCAN

TWO longstanding local identities have died.

Former Federal Member for Bowman and Redland Shire Mayor Leo Keogh died at his Ormiston home on October 10.

He occupied the seat of Bowman when it included Wynnum, Manly and part of the Redlands and held the seat for Labor from 1969-75, then 1983-87 and was Deputy Chairman of Committees from 1984-87.

He lost a pre-selection battle for the Bowman seat before the 1987 federal election to Con Sciacca and ended his career in federal politics with five wins and three losses.

Mr Keogh later turned his energies to local govern-for one term.

Deputy Premier and Lytton MP Paul Lucas said Mr Keogh was a popular local member and "very strong parliamentarian" with a lengthy history in politics.

Mr Keogh is survived by his wife Joan, their six children and 19 grandchildren.

Mr Keogh's funeral was held at Ormiston yesterday.

Backbone of sporting clubs

BERNARD (BERNIE) "BUMPER" KERMOND

Truck driver, sporting clubs stalwart

Born: January 7, 1942, Jundah
Died: August 15, 2015, Hemmant, Brisbane

MENTION the name Bernie Kermond and most people would immediately ask "who?". But mention Bumper and every touch footballer in southeast Queensland would know exactly who you mean.

Bumper spent his life working for others. He loved his sports. To be successful at any sport there needs to be a back-up crew behind the scenes. That was Bumper.

He volunteered his time more than any person could imagine. At South Queensland Touch he was the bus driver, truck driver, kitchen hand, maintenance man and general go-to man.

Bumper was born in central-west Queensland, he was only three when he and his four brothers were separated from their parents and taken in by the Margaret Marr home for boys in Wynnum. Times were tough and his parents did not have enough money to adequately care for their children.

Bumper spent 11 years at the home that housed between 30 and 50 boys but he never complained.

By the time he was 16 he was working, living in a flat and playing junior footy for Wynnum Manly.

He graduated to the senior ber of the 3rd grade Seagulls side that scored a historic 9-2 grand final win over Norths. It was the club's inaugural senior-grade premiership.

It's not known how Bumper, who "played every position except halfback and hooker", got his nickname. Perhaps it came from his attempts to run over opposing wingers instead of trying to run around them, or trying to act like a speed bump to slow his opponents down until help arrived.

Bumper was a pretty laid-back character, content to play each season without worrying too much about what grade he would be playing, or how many games he would get throughout the season.

He had perfected his pre-season training ritual to ensure he achieved his major annual goal, which was to make sure he was fit and well for the arduous end-of-season trips – something he enjoyed more than playing.

To give him the best chance of survival until the end-of-year trip, Bumper often used to start his pre-season training in the last week of the trials, then sit on the sideline for C grade and work his way up the grades as injuries took their toll on players during the season.

Bumper loved going on trips with the boys and this continued into his touch football days, as did fishing trips, and trips to Sydney for the NRL grand final for many years.

Former rugby league teammate John Carroll recalls: "I first met Bumper in 1968 playing football at Wynnum Manly. Bumper was already a well-known character within the club and in the community.

"He was always a positive, fun-loving character and used to enjoy trying to make sure things never got too serious – after all, it was only a game. This philosophy worked well most of the time, but not so successfully in 1972.

"Jim Lewis was coaching the C grade team and Wynnum had a real chance to win a senior premiership for the first time ever. After beating the previously undefeated Norths team by 20-6 in the major semi, Jim thought a bus trip to the coast on the next weekend might be just the trick to ensure team morale and camaraderie were at their strongest to give us the best chance in the grand final.

"Like many good ideas that coaches have, it didn't quite go to plan. After numerous stubbornly consumed in the bus on the way down, an unseasonally hot day, and some different perceptions as to how serious we should be taking the 'friendly' game of beach football, Bumper and George Baldacchino ended up having a bit of a dust-up on the beach, with all hands on deck needed to smooth the ruffled feathers.

"Fortunately, the following week, we managed to win the final, history was made and all hard feelings were forgotten."

Bumper started playing touch football a bit later than some of his rugby league mates, as he was still playing footy was long before he was well known in touch circles also, not only because of his ability to play but especially because of his personality.

Bumper was a founding member of Redlands Touch Association in 1979 and played for almost 30 years.

He also worked in several volunteer roles. When work needing doing around the grounds, Bumper lined up alongside other players who, after playing their match in the morning, grabbed picks and shovels and started digging ditches for wiring for the floodlights or anything else that needed doing.

When Bumper retired from playing he became a tireless worker for Redlands juniors. On Friday nights he would be cooking the barbecue and working the canteen for hungry players and their parents. He would never refuse a request to help out no matter what was required – usually with a typical response of "no worries".

He was also a great help to the South Queensland and Border Districts (SQBD) touch region for many years as a driver and "gofer" at the National Touch League championships at Coffs Harbour.

Bumper represented Redlands from over 35s to over 50s and, during these years, he also represented the region (SQBD) in those divisions.

He played for the Bulldogs from 1979-1988 and the Barbarians from 1989-2004.

This was on top of the great work he did over so many years saving club. Until recently Bumper was active as patrol captain at the club.

Bumper was introduced to North Kirra by a couple of footy club mates in the late 1960s. After a weekend spent "testing the waters" to see if he liked it, Bumper was hooked. So in summer it was the surf club and in winter it was footy.

Bumper was a life member of South Queensland Touch, Wynnum Manly Rugby League Club, South Queensland and Border Districts Touch Association and North Kirra Surf Life Saving Club.

Never one to wear his accomplishments or accolades on his sleeve, he was often heard saying "makes no difference to me" in response to a sudden change of plan or a request to do something that might have inconvenienced him. Nothing was too much trouble for Bumper.

Outside sport, Bumper worked for the same company for 44 years as a truck driver and lived in the same house, just a 10 minute walk from Wynnum's Kougari Oval, for the past 42 years.

He was married once but divorced and is survived by his three children, two grandchildren and three brothers.

As a mark of the high esteem in which Bumper is held, a memorial service is being held tomorrow, 10.30am at North Kirra Surf Life Savers Supporters Club, after which his ashes will be scattered in the sea.

Golf foundation life member remembered

Wynnum Golf Club members recorded with regret at the annual meeting of the death of Mr. Wilson Kerr—one of the foundation life members of the club.

Mr. Kerr held a high position in banking circles in Brisbane until his retirement last year.

It is recorded that the idea of forming the Wynnum Golf Club originated in a conversation between Mr. Kerr and Dr. Legge Willis in 1921.

Prior to this Mr. Kerr and Mr. A. G. Oliver had laid out a nine hole course on open land near Wynnum North station, and this site continued to be used for a short time after the club was formed.

Mr. Kerr was a member of the first committee formed on July 19, 1922, and rendered yeoman service to the new club.

Son of former Premier passes on

Early Association with Wynnum District.

The death occurred after a short illness of Mr. W. Kidston, the sole surviving son of a former Premier of Queensland (Mr. William Kidston). It will be recalled that the Premier lived for many years in North Wynnum, at Mt. Margaret (now Nazareth Home), where his son commenced dairy farming in 1912. In 1914 the late Mr. Kidston purchased the adjacent property of Bayview Dairy, situated on Tingal, Pritcard and Hemmant Roads, adjoining the Lytton Camp. During his years of association with the [district (1912-1921)] the late Mr. Kidston was prominently associated with many public bodies, including the Wynnum Show Association, and was an office-bearer in the local Presbyterian Church. He was also responsible for the organisation of a co-operative effort for the rationalising of milk distribution in the Wynnum area.

From Wynnum Mr. Kidston moved to Samsonvale, where he again engaged in farming. In later years he was associated with the firm of Allan & Stark. Mr. Kidston, who was aged 59 years, is survived by his widow, Mrs. J. Kidston, Loch Street, West End, two sons and one daughter. He was predeceased by one son, who was killed in

King of the coast surf scene

Matti Allan Kolkka OAM

Surf lifesaving veteran

Born: October 13, 1929,
Brisbane

Died: July 18, 2010,
Southport

CLUB STALWART: Allan Kolkka gave half a century's service to surf lifesaving on the Gold Coast.

WHEN Allan Kolkka joined the Surfers Paradise surf lifesaving club as a keen-as-mustard 18-year-old in 1947, he probably never imagined he would still be involved in the movement more than half a century later.

In those early years he drove from Brisbane each weekend to help patrol Surfers Paradise beach, back then the centre of the action on what was still called the South Coast.

The middle child of Finnish immigrants (he had an older brother, Doug, and a younger sister, Shirley), he grew up in Wynnum and was always happy around water.

He and Doug built and sailed their own boats, although on one embarrassing occasion they sailed straight into the Wynnum pier and tore their mast clean off.

So it was almost inevitable that Allan drifted to the then sleepy village of Surfers Paradise, meeting a group of blokes who became lifelong friends – Lou Vaughn, John Moffat, Claude Jeanerette, “Woopsie”, the Kitcheners, and Pat Kelly.

All were members of Surfers Paradise Surf Life Saving Club. They built their bond performing daring line-and-belt rescues in huge seas.

The beltman would pull the line straight off the reel and once the hapless swimmer was secured, members of the public hauled lifesaver and the saved back to shore.

About that time Mr Kolkka met a lass named Norma, who was working at a Chinese restaurant in Surfers called Cafe Cathay.

He would order a meal and Norma would bring out enough to feed all his mates.

He started hanging around, and they were married in Southport in 1952.

Three sons – Noel, Ross and Bruce – arrived in quick succession and had a great time growing up in Labrador, where they were taken to Finnish community get-togethers in between being allowed to run around the yard with tomahawks, slug guns and other weapons.

There were many trips to hospital.

By 1966 Mr Kolkka had switched his allegiances to the Northcliffe SLSC after a close friend persuaded him to take his sons there and start a nippers' group.

It was the beginning of a dynasty, with Mr Kolkka remaining active at a senior level in the club until he was 68.

His nine grandchildren have taken over where he left off.

Over the 50-plus years he was involved with surf lifesaving he officiated at hundreds of carnivals, examined thousands of lifesaving candidates and helped thousands more children and adults learn resuscitation techniques and surf survival skills.

His hard work both in the surf and in the boardroom continued throughout the 1970s and 80s. In 1972 he was elected deputy president of the senior club and, two years later, president – a role he held for the next 10 years.

Mr Kolkka was a reformer and under his leadership he turned Northcliffe into a strong, family-oriented organisation.

He also embarked on major renovations to the clubhouse, and in the tough times of the 1980s would drag his family along to three chook raffles a week at various hotels to raise funds.

Even after he stepped down from the top job he remained involved, joining the Supporters

Club committee and a volunteer team of older members who set up and disassembled carnival equipment for the state and Australian titles.

His efforts were recognised with a Medal of the Order of Australia and also a life membership of his club in 1981.

He and his family, who were also dedicated SLSA members, were awarded a Legends of the Surf certificate in 1993.

For their part, Norma, Ross, Bruce and Noel were all recognised with life memberships of Northcliffe.

Theirs was a team effort.

If Mr Kolkka was at the club working, Norma would as likely as not be there lending a hand.

The Kolkkas were not only passionate about their club, they were passionate about each other.

That bond proved infectious, helping cement Northcliffe's reputation as a true family club.

Mr Kolkka is survived by his wife Norma, his three sons, nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

POPULAR Wynnum identity George Lacey passed away last week aged 70. ?

More than 300 people attended his funeral on Friday at the Bayside Uniting Church, Wondall Rd, Manly West.

The service was conducted by Rev Ruth Tracey who described George and his wife Norma as "the salt of the earth", and as people who demonstrated genuine, loving concern for others.

George was born at Proserpine on January 30, 1928 and moved to Brisbane in 1950.

A talented vocalist who earlier had earned the name of "Golden Voiced Boy of the North", George had a regular spot with the radio station now known as 4BC, singing requests for listeners.

A tape of one of George's vocal renditions, "If I had My Life to Live Over" was played at his funeral.

In 1956 George married Norma Thurecht and moved to the Wynnum area.

For 13 years the couple operated a newsagency in Glenora St, Wynnum North.

In 1976 they bought the newsagency at 137 Bay Tce, Wynnum, a business which was taken over by a new owner this week.

George's reputation for honesty and sincerity made him popular with the business community and with his customers.

He was a man who was always ready with a kind word and a cheery smile, and he will be sorely missed by all who knew him.

George is mourned by Norma, son Peter, daughter Kym Abbott, son-in-law Scott and grandson Jayden Abbott, 3.

In a funeral tribute to her father, Kym said she and Peter "had the best dad in the world".

"We're going to point to the brightest star in the heavens and tell Jayden 'that is Poppa looking down on you'," she said.

These fond words uttered each night to Eddie Laing by his family have continued since his death in a traffic accident on New Year's Eve.

Mr Laing, 58, was farewelled by family and friends, including his partner of 40 years, Mary Withers, at a Stapylton funeral home near the Gold Coast on January 10.

Funeral director Tim Connolly said mourners had been moved by the service where Mr Laing's nephew spoke about the uncle he loved and a great-niece read a poem she had penned.

"Everyone in the whole place was crying because it was a very sad thing," Mr Connolly said.

"Mary had an opportunity to say goodbye."

Mr Laing died after the bicycle he was riding collided with a car at a Wynnum North roundabout on New Year's Eve.

Phylis Lenz, 75, a friend of Mr Laing's, was unable to attend the funeral, but believed Mr Laing was on his way to a New Year's Eve party when he died.

Rotary hails memory of great leader

GEORGE was a personal friend to so many and to some of us a mentor. He was a leader in Rotary and also in the community.

George was known to some as Mr Spring Parade because he transformed what used to be the Ambulance Spring Fair into the Wynnum Spring Parade and as chairman of the committee built it to its very peak before handing it over.

George was also a strong supporter of the Chamber of Commerce and other community organisations.

He was a prominent organiser of the Commonwealth Games in Brisbane.

From 1939-1945 George served in the Australian Army and because he was a carpenter he was sent on building projects in Sydney, Bathurst, Parks and Mallala.

Because George was such an expert organiser he served as a Rotary international representative and project manager in Papua New Guinea and the Solomon Islands, plus in many other responsible positions.

George has served his time well and truly deserves to rest in peace.

WYNNUM MOURNS LOSS OF A COMMUNITY LEGEND WHO MADE A DIFFERENCE

Josh Alston

WHEN George Lake moved into Janoah Gardens late in life, he soon made it his mission to improve the food for its elderly residents.

"And he got the soup improved," his daughter Dianne said.

That was the sort of man Mr Lake was — a mover and a shaker right until his death on July 13 aged 87.

His impact in the Wynnum Manly community in which he lived for almost 60 years is not likely to be forgotten soon. Certainly not by those who were there to see the proud member of the Rotary Club of Wynnum and Manly once ride an elephant down Bay Tce as part of the annual Spring Festival.

Nor the thousands of Rotary volunteers for whom he prepared meals in his twilight years.

And certainly not by his family, including his children, who he adored and cared for until the end.

Mr Lake, founder of George Lake and Co on Tingal Rd, moved to the bayside with his new wife in the 1950s because Lowood, near Toowoomba, was "too cold".

Before that he had worked as a carpenter since his 13th birthday with his father, a career that saw him build army huts with the Civil Constructional Corps and fit out planes in the RAAF before setting up shop in Wynnum.

He built the family's home on Preston Rd and lived there for 55 years, raising Beverley, Barry, Dianne and Russell — who has taken over the family business. Over the course of what would have been 60 years in October, he dedicated his life to the community through Rotary and was never a shrinking violet when it came to getting things done.

"We will never know how many lives he has touched," Dianne said.

"Not just via Rotary, but through his community work such as the Commonwealth Games and in the local Spring Festival.

"He was an absolute doer in life, certainly not a bystander. Even in his 80s he was still organising cups of tea and sandwiches for the Rotarians on working bees. Dad was a larger than life character."

Mr Lake was farewelled at St Peter's Anglican Church last Thursday by about 250 mourners.

Death Of ^{11.7.94} Old Time Athlete

MR. W. ("BILL") LAKE
The death occurred last week of one of Wynnum's early and most colourful athletes. He was Mr. W. "Bill" Lake, of Lota, who was one of the original members of the old Wynnum Gordon Athletic Club.

The late Mr. Lake, who was 77 years of age at the time of his death, had been an athlete of no mean order, and as a wrestler, held the Queensland Amateur championship from 1902 until the beginning of World War 1.

During his time, the subject of these lines held every position on the Queensland Amateur Boxing and Wrestling Union and had toured overseas to take part in international contests as well as having represented Queensland on eleven occasions in interstate wrestling contests.

As a member of the old Gordon Club, the late Bill Lake trained seven of eight winners of Queensland titles in one year and he was the founder of the Queensland Railway Institute wrestling team. As late as 1933 he reached the semi-finals of the Australian wrestling championships. He was also an accomplished gymnast.

For the last five years the late Mr. Lake had resided with his wife at Lota and all his working life had been an employee of the Q.G.R. fettler's gang. His widow, and two sons, Mr. Eric Lake, of Brisbane, and Mr. Tom Lake, of Charters Towers, survive.

A former resident of Bradford, England, the late Mr. Lambert had been a member of the Savoyards Musical Society, Iona Passion Play and also filled the office as treasurer of the Bayside Recreation Club.

His cremation service took place at the East Chapel of the Mt. Thompson Crematorium this morning (Wednesday). He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Madge Lambert.

10.6.87 Obituary: 'Madge' Lambert

A 30-YEAR involvement with the theatre came to an end on May 29 with the death of Margaret Ann Lambert. Margaret, better known to baysiders as Madge, was a singer, amateur actress, nurse and teacher.

Born in Cumberland, England, Madge, 83, came to Australia in 1954.

Madge's early days in Australia were spent as a part-time nurse before she gave this up to look after her family.

On the bayside she also was known as a Sunday School teacher at St Margaret's at Wynnum North.

But it was her love of the theatre that Madge was probably best known for.

Early on she was involved with Savoyards Musical and Dramatic Society before taking up a 25-year association with the organisers of the Iona Passion Play.

Her favourite role was playing the part of a blind man's mother — a part she played for many years.

Madge also was wardrobe mistress for the Iona Passion Play for several years before she gave up acting some three years ago. This was after she lost her sight and had to become a resident of St Mary's Nursing Home at Manly.

She also was involved with the Wynnum Country Women's Association branch and held the office of president back in the 60s.

Madge also delivered Meals on Wheels.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs Betty Talty, and son-in-law Peter of Sheldon, grandchildren Margaret, Peter and John and great-grandchildren.

Her funeral service at Mt Thompson Crematorium on June 1 was well attended by Iona Passion Play cast members.

Lamond leaves many friends

11-7-1990
FORMER premier Mike Ahern was among the 350 people who paid their last respects to one of the Bayside's greatest leaders, Bill Lamond, who died last Thursday.

Wynnum St Peter's Anglican Church hall was filled with mourners, many of high standing in the community, during the funeral service on Monday.

Reverend Olaf Anderson was assisted by Moreton Bay Trailer Boat Club commodore John Harper in paying tribute to the man who had laid the foundation for numerous organisations, buildings and careers in the Wynnum district.

"He was an unselfish but caring person who would help anyone in need and even during his own illness, uncomplainingly," Mr Harper said.

"Our community has a lot to thank him for."

William McMillan Lamond was born on July 13, 1920 at Cloncurry. He grew up on South Molle Island and moved to Lindum in 1937.

After his marriage to wife Bettina Pye, and fighting in the front line in New Guinea and the Pacific during World War II, he returned to the area and established Lamond Real Estate.

During his life he was responsible for the building of the Wynnum High School hall and founding of the Moreton Bay Trailer Boat Club. He was an early member of Moreton Bay Lions Club and helped many local Legacy widows and children.

In 1974 he became the State Member for Wynnum and held the seat for one term until 1977.

By 1979 he was elected by Central Council as chairman of the National Party's Small Business Policy Committee and later was asked by the (then) premier, Sir Joh Bjelke-Petersen, to become the mediator of the Retail Shop Leases Tribunal.

However mediating retail shop leases was not his only skill at solving conflict.

He also was a dispute arbitrator for the Real Estate Institute of Queensland (REIQ), its branch president for many years and took it upon himself to encourage others, many his opposition, to raise the standard of professionalism in the real estate industry in the bayside.

In 1973 he became the key figure in the setting up of the Waterloo Bay 50s and Over Leisure Centre which he handed over to the management committee debt free.

Leisure Centre president Ernie Harrison said Mr Lamond was his friend and mentor in his career.

He said Mr Lamond would never leave anything to chance and his encouraging manner and stickler for detail attitude had ensured anything he touched was successful.

This week tributes from organisations across Brisbane reached Mr Lamond's family.

State Deputy Opposition Leader Rob Borbidge said Mr Lamond's patience and genuine concern for fair play had earned him the respect of people throughout the State.

Mr Lamond leaves his widow, six children, 18 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Death of Wynnum Soccer man

30-4-75
Followers of junior soccer in Wynnum were shocked and dismayed to learn of the sudden collapse and demise of John Lange last Sunday afternoon.

It was somewhat typical of John Lange that his last hours were spent on the soccer field, helping lads in the sport he loved so much.

John had been ill since Christmas but nothing could keep him away from helping the Wynnum Juniors.

John Lange in his few years with Wynnum Club proved to be one of the most devoted helpers that Wynnum soccer has known. His contribution and friendly approach will be sadly missed.

All junior soccer followers through "The Herald" extend sincere and deepest sympathy to Mrs. Lange and her two sons.

District identity passes Vale Mrs. Doris Lillian Langridge

10-10-1972
Mrs. Doris Lillian Langridge of Duncan Street, Wynnum West, who died last week, was born in Townsville in 1902, the eldest daughter of Thomas William Sturdy and Julia Sturdy.

She moved to Manly and was a first day student at Manly State School at its opening in 1910.

In 1925 she married E.

C. (Ted) Langridge and had two children, Neville and Lorraine.

She moved to Wynnum West in 1934 and remained in the district until her death.

Husband Ted died in 1974.

She is survived by her son and daughter, five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

During her early years in Wynnum she was active in what was then known as ring bowls.

Following a service in Guardian Angels Church on Friday the funeral moved to the Hemmant cemetery where she was buried.

Father Carmel officiated at the church and graveside.

"the village blacksmith" in Tingal Road. Dick later served his apprenticeship with Queensland Motors working on T-model Fords, and when the Ford Company established its own factory in this State, he later joined Ford and had been with the company for 40 years. In the sports scene he was an accomplished rink bowler and held many trophies. He was predeceased by his wife, Jean, in December, 1971, and also his twin brother, Reg, in March last. He is survived by his son, Keith, and three daughters — Fay, Val and Anne; four brothers — Ted, Harold, Gordon and Cyril; and two sisters — Millicent and Doris. There are also nine grandchildren. The funeral took place to the Church of England Cemetery at Tingalpa on May 23.

The death occurred suddenly last week of a well-known district resident in the person of Mr. Ronald George (Dick) Langridge, of 214 Sibleys Road, Lindum. In his 63rd year, his passing came as a shock and saddened those who knew him — his helping hand to those in need and his many acts of kindness endeared him to many. Born in Brisbane, the late Mr. Langridge came to Wynnum when "the town" was only a series of bush tracks, gas lights and the water supply came from tanks and wells. He was educated at Wynnum Central State School and later went to work for Mr. Eric N. Lincoln —

Mr. Lars Larsen.

THE death occurred, at his residence, Mountjoy-terrace, Wynnum South, on January 9, of Mr. Lars Larsen, the major part of whose life had been spent in the Ipswich district. Mr. Larsen had been suffering from heart trouble for between three and four years, his death following upon a heart attack on Saturday night. He was born in Norway 71 years ago, and came out to Australia at the age of 12. He first resided in Glamorgan Vale, and for some time Mr. Larsen, with his brother, John Larsen, worked at the old sawmill at Sandy Creek, near Walloon. They also worked together in the building of T. L. Smith's sawmill at Marburg, and, after doing joinery work there for some time, built the sugar mill when Mr. Smith commenced sugar crushing at the commencement of the sugar industry.

With his headquarters at Basin Pocket, Ipswich, Mr. Larsen carried on building and contracting work in the Ipswich district for most of his life, the Masonic Hall at Booval and the Catholic Church at Harrisville being two of the edifices which he erected. Twelve years ago he retired, and moved from his residence in Basin Pocket to Wynnum South, where he remained till the time of his death. The late Mr. Larsen was married about 50 years ago, and, on the death of his wife, married Miss Ellen Gee, daughter of James Gee, one of the earliest settlers of Pine Mountain. Mr. Larsen was always interested in progress association work, and was the first vice-president of the East Ipswich Association. He also had the distinction of being one of the first to join the mounted infantry of Ipswich, of which he was a member for some years. Lodges secured the particularly enthusiastic support of the deceased. He was a foundation member of the United Service Lodge of Bundamba, U.G.L.Q., a very old member of the True Blue Lodge, No. 8, P.A.F.S.O.A., and was a member of the Lodge ooval, No. 243, U.G.L.Q., for about three years prior to his departure from Ipswich. He is survived by a widow (Wynnum South), two sons, Leonard Larsen (Ipswich), and James Larsen (North Ipswich), two daughters, Mrs. C. A. Preston (Booval), and Mrs. P. Ward (Wynnum South), and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Fond memories of a tireless volunteer

11-12-1996
TIRELESS volunteer for Kangaroo Point's Mt Olivet Hospital, Wynnum North resident James Henry Lawson, died on November 17 after a fight with cancer.

Known as Jim to most, he may have gone from this world but his memory lives on with his relatives and friends, all of whom spoke of his beaming smile and selfless manner.

Born at Charters Towers in 1913, Jim rose through the ranks of the army during World War II from private to lieutenant. He served in the 2/11 Regiment in New Guinea before spending 35 years as a commercial traveller for Maurie Brothers and Thompson.

Jim was a resident of the Blue Nurses' Wesleyville since 1988. His wife Mae died on December 2, 1991, and he was much the sadder for her death, especially as they had no children.

Jim was a volunteer in many organisations. He helped at Mt Olivet Hospital, visiting patients and lifting their spirits one day a week for the past eight years, as well as chairing a one-hour radio program on 100.3 Bay FM, where he volunteered one day a week. He was an active member of Moreton Bay Lions and St James Anglican Church. He also dedicated much time to his role as patient contact officer for the Motor Neurone Disease Association.

Motor Neurone Disease Association State president John Wearne said Jim was a man who always considered others before himself.

"He was one of those unsung heroes who enjoyed doing things for people without recognition," he said. "He should've received many accolades but he never looked for any kudos."

Jim was also a volunteer for the Wynnum Blue Nursing Service, helping in fundraising, transporting clients and residents to appointments, and in the day respite care centre.

manager Robyn Apps said he would be sadly missed by his many friends at the service.

Jim's nephew Graeme Thomson was presented with the Ken Blackmore Honour Award last night from the Motor Neurone Disease Association on behalf of Jim in honor of his volunteer work.

"He was a very generous and kind man," Graeme said.

Fellow Bay FM volunteer Richard Tetley wrote a poem after his passing.

He said Jim had a gentle way and cared for everyone. He helped wherever possible and even found time to have some fun.

WELL-KNOWN local identity Don Lea, who was involved with several community organisations, died recently. 6-7-1998

Don, 73, was an active member of two lodges — Buffaloes and Tuscan, was involved with the Returned Services League through the Manly/Lota and Wynnum branches, and was a current member of ISA.

He also was associated with the 50 and Over Leisure Centre.

Don often would contribute time to assist with fund raising or services provided by those organisations. He filled many offices, including delegate, junior vice-president and handicraft instructor, and helped with welfare work through hospital visits.

Despite several periods of illness and long periods of hospitalisation, Don reportedly continued to smile and display a sense of humour.

Born and educated in Roma, he sought employment in the rural areas of the Darling Downs at the age of 14. While visiting the Bayside at the age of 23, he met and married Violet Pike.

Don enlisted in the AIF and sailed from Australia aboard the Queen Mary on Boxing Day, 1940. He saw action in Benghazi, Greece, Crete and Syria, his unit being attached to the Sixth Division.

After the recall of troops from the Middle East, Don arrived at Singleton. His ACS unit was then attached to the Fourth Armoured Brigade under the command of Brigadier McArthur Onslow.

The unit had the only Matilda Tanks to see service in New Guinea. Don was a staff driver serving at Milne Bay, Gona and Buna. The Fourth Armoured Brigade was involved with the fall of Sattleberg.

Following his discharge in August, 1945, he resumed his family life in Manly.

He was a bus driver with the Black and White company before driving Pioneer buses for the Argate family. This was followed by a truck driving job with building contractor NF Corbett.

In 1960, Don joined the William Adams Company, where he was employed for eight years until illness forced his early resignation. During the next six months he filled several positions at KR Darling Downs but illness again saw his early retirement.

Don is survived by his wife, Violet, daughter Anette, sons Alwyn and Mervyn and seven grandchildren.

Many pay respects

■ Obituary Herald 18/6/03

LEE Le Blanc was farewelled in fitting style last week when more than 100 people gathered to pay their last respects at her funeral.

Mrs Le Blanc, 52, had bravely fought leukemia for more than a year.

Among several recollections of a full life were Mrs Le Blanc's achievements in winning three Australian Senior Speed Skating titles, awards which matched her ability to make and keep friends. She also reached state level in diving and had the "distinction" in her early days of being rescued from drowning in the Balmain pool by none other than the great Dawn Fraser.

After being Dux of her Sydney primary school, Mrs Le Blanc was the first girl from Balmain to win a scholarship to the prestigious Sydney Girl's High School.

Mrs Le Blanc's first look at the Wynnum Manly area about 1988 sealed her connection with the region and after dabbling in running a fish and chip shop with husband John, there followed a stint with insurance selling before her true vocation arrived. Real estate selling with PRD at Manly, Raine and Horne at Wynnum, PRD Head Office, Denise Burkitt Realty Manly and Re/Max established Mrs Le Blanc as an identity and personality with thousands of owners, buyers and browsers.

● Lee Le Blanc

Mrs Le Blanc was highly regarded for her integrity, service, sense of humour and honesty.

Her passion for sport helped lead her to even more friends and with favourite pastimes such as movies, music and reading, Mrs Le Blanc combined all while doing a magnificent job of running a family.

An artful approach to peace

MUCH of Brenda Lewis's life was spent working for peace and justice, something which no doubt was partly influenced by her tough upbringing on a small farm in Wynnum during the Depression years.

As an artist and writer, Ms Lewis created posters and banners promoting non-violence, human rights and environmental sustainability.

Her creations in the name of justice were used by numerous organisations in marches and rallies.

One of those rallies took place in New York in 2000 during the World March of Women, which focused on ending women's poverty and violence against women.

Her work was held in such high regard she was commissioned by the Miscellaneous Workers Union to paint a huge mural for their rooms at Spring Hill, in inner Brisbane.

The mural, which highlights peaceful relationships and social interaction, depicts all trades and professions.

Ms Lewis used her talents to help many other trade unions over the years, specialising in banners that have been used in a host of May Day processions.

Born: March 30, 1924,
Brisbane

Died: August 31, 2010,
Brisbane

Her distinctive work was also used to illustrate numerous publications, while exhibitions of her pieces are held in some public galleries.

Art was always a strong and motivating force in her life.

She completed her early studies in art at the prestigious Slade School in London and later graduated with an arts degree from the University of Queensland, where she had enrolled as a mature-age student.

But her talents were not restricted to canvas.

She was also a well-regarded poet and in recent years produced two volumes of peace poems, which she illustrated herself, of course.

She also wrote letters and essays on topics including war, peace and human rights, many of which were published.

Others were recited or read at meetings and rallies and for many years, Ms Lewis was on the editorial board of the popular critical journal Social Alternatives.

One of her longstanding commitments was to the Queensland branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which she joined in the 1960s.

In recognition of her exceptional service to the organisation, she was made a life member in the early 1990s.

Ms Lewis was also nominated for an award in the inaugural Peace Women Awards held earlier this year.

As a campaigner for a nuclear free world, she was involved with WILPF and the Campaign Against Nuclear Power in the 1970s and 1980s to fight for nuclear-free zones.

Another of her activism interests was with the Mayors for Peace projects in 2005 and 2008, which focused on the abolition of nuclear weapons.

Over the years she promoted dozens of campaigns and projects for the abolition of war, for world disarmament, Aboriginal rights, non-violent action and anti-nuclear issues.

As a promoter of education for peace, she was involved in organising the Disarmament: A Human Right poster and publication display at the University of Queensland's Fryer Library in 1980 which was staged to mark World Disarmament Week.

Ms Lewis was also keenly interested in the health of the planet and as such became involved with the campaign against an irradiation plant at Narangba, north of Brisbane.

By the early 2000s, she had become increasingly concerned about the continued development of the nuclear industry in Australia and around the world.

She responded by writing letters, visiting politicians and making banners about these matters.

Remembered by her friends and fellow activists and artists as a generous and courageous person, she tried to inspire others not just through her art and words but through humour and faith in positive outcomes.

Ms Lewis is survived by her two sons, Richard and Robert, and her grandchildren Tristan, Byron, Isabella and Damon.

DOYEN: Brenda Lewis created images promoting non-violence, human rights and environmental sustainability.

Mrs. V. E. Lewis

Mrs. Violet Evelyn Lewis, of Macdonald Street, Lota, last Saturday was honoured by the Queen with an M.B.E. (Member of the Order of the British Empire).

M.B.E.

15.6.1977

Her M.B.E. was awarded for notable service to the community.

The citation said, "Mrs. Lewis has given aid succour to servicemen in two world wars in 1914-1918, as a nurse, and in 1939-1945 as a volunteer worker for the Red Cross.

"She also contributed time and financial aid to other voluntary organisations."

SUPPORT

The citation continued, "Mrs. Lewis has given generous support to Senior Citizens organisations as an organiser of social outings and as a fund raiser.

"In her business capacity, as a director of a bus service, she has often made buses available free of charge for the transporting of aged and infirmed persons to various functions."

"In addition to her philanthropic work with organisations Mrs. Lewis is also known for her many acts of charity and assistance to those who seek her help, or whose plight come to her notice.

Her spontaneous generosity presents an outstanding record of voluntary public service."

When her name appeared in Saturday's newspapers, Mrs. Lewis was on a visit to North Queensland with relatives.

She told The Herald the award came as a complete surprise.

As governing director of Bayside Buses and the Redlands bus service, Mrs Lewis leads an active business life.

But she told The Herald that her greatest reward came from being able to help people.

"Anything I may have done I rate has been a privilege. This has been my reward."

Community loses a worker

29.8.90

WELL-known Lota resident and community volunteer Mrs Daphne Lindsay has passed away.

Lorna Daphne Lindsay, nee Williams, was born in Casino, married in Tenterfield, and spent the past 34 years living at Lota.

She had three children, Ron, Marie and Steve.

A life member of the Wynnum Police-Citizens Youth Club and Queensland Police-Citizens Youth Welfare Association, Mrs Lindsay spent the past 22 years as a dedicated volunteer, giving of herself for the betterment of youth and community.

Mrs Lindsay was also a former Quota Woman of the Year recipient.

She was known for her smile and cheerful disposition and will be sadly missed by all.

The memories of this loving, caring and community youth mother will be the strength that many can continue to grow on.

A service was held at Wynnum followed by interment at the Hemmant Lawn Cemetery.

• Mrs Daphne Lindsay

Following a brief illness the death occurred on Friday last in the Princess Alexandra Hospital of one of Wynnum's oldest and colourful identities in the person of Mr. Daniel Lind, of Carlton Terrace. In his 89th year, the late Mr. Lind, right up to his last illness, was an active and alert man, taking pride in attending to his home and surroundings and making light the weight of his years. A native of Aberdeen, Scotland, the deceased gentleman was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lind, who came to Australia about 80 years ago and settled at Highgate Hill. The subject of these lines was then about 10 years of age, but often spoke of the hardships endured by the passengers who embarked on the small ships of those days to sail into the almost unknown, as it were, to find for themselves a home in a new land. After residing in East Brisbane for some years, the late Mr. Lind came to Wynnum with his wife, who was before her marriage Miss Nancy McKinlay Watson, and took up residence here just on fifty years ago. A building contractor by trade, the late Mr. Lind was called upon to build many of the homes that are standing today in the Wynnum-Manly district. One of his contracts was for the construction of the present Wynnum Post Office. An active man all his life, it is not surprising to learn that the late Mr. Lind was a keen boating man who had quite a number of craft in his time. Possibly the best known to members of the older generation was the rater which he christened "The Jean". Later, for reasons best known to himself, the owner renamed this boat "The Rogue". In the early 90's of the last century the late Mr. Lind sailed in races on Brisbane River in what he described the boats as "square-ender punts". As a boating enthusiast he also combined this sport with fishing, and there were few, if any, parts of Moreton Bay where Daniel Lind had not sailed or fished on, particularly so in the Dunwich and Amity localities. A family man and one who encouraged the young people in various fields of sport, the Lind home at Carlton Terrace was the Mecca of regular family gatherings, where members of younger generation were coached in the many arts, at cricket and tennis by the old gentleman whose life has just come to a close. The funeral service was conducted in the Mt. Thompson East Chapel on Monday afternoon last, the Rev. Andrew Wilson, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Wynnum, officiating. The late Daniel Lind is survived by his widow, four sons in Messrs. Ralf (Wynnum), Col. (Manly), Reg. (Manly) and Neville (Wynnum) and three daughters.

Fearless at war and in peace

cm 18/11/11 P102

WHETHER engaged in a dog-fight with a German fighter over the North Sea in 1943 or doing battle for unsecured creditors in a corporate collapse, Frederick Lippiatt truly earned his nickname "Fearless Fred".

Mr Lippiatt was one of three sons and two daughters born to John Henry and Dorothy Edith Lippiatt (nee Esau).

His father was crippled by gas during World War I and after his mother died Frederick, then aged 7, and his siblings were separated and placed in orphanages. A year later his father also died.

He would later recount the hardships during the Depression years for the boys of the Margaret Marr Home at Wynnum, including tales of floggings by the master and searching the bins at the local school for the buttered crusts more affluent children left uneaten. And he would talk of the joyous occasions such as Christmas, when the boys would sing carols.

At the orphanage, the young Mr Lippiatt met Messrs R.M. King and G.H.H. Gill, honorary solicitors to the committee running the home, which was to be something of an epiphany.

Frederick Walton Lippiatt

WWII pilot, solicitor

Born: May 28, 1923, Brisbane

Died: October 14, 2011, Brisbane

Mr Lippiatt and his older brother Rodney left the orphanage in 1936 and obtained agricultural work, perhaps the genesis of his lifelong love of gardening.

After some years they pooled their savings and bought and cleared by hand virgin scrub at Moggill, planting 70,000 pine-apples. The first crop paid off their debts, but more hardship loomed in the shape of World War II.

Despite the promise he and his brothers made to their father not to be involved in any future war, Mr Lippiatt enlisted in the RAAF in October 1941.

With the help of a retired school master and a kerosene lamp, he improved his education at nights and was duly posted to the Elementary

RESPECTED: Frederick Lippiatt was a well-known and admired Brisbane solicitor and WWII fighter pilot.

RAAF Flying School at Archerfield and then to Urunguinty in NSW, where he trained on Wirraways, graduating as a flying officer in late 1942.

He was sent to England and was soon flying Spitfires on North Sea sorties before a posting to the RAF base at Poona, India. He then transferred to No.136 Fighter Squadron at Chittagong, near the Burma border, where he flew a Spitfire he nicknamed Elish Ellen.

There he encountered Japanese Zero fighters and made ground attacks on enemy forces. His squadron was shifted to Ceylon (now Sri Lanka), where he flew Corsairs, Wildcats and Seafires, before making his way home in mid-1945.

Inspired by Messrs King and Gill so many years earlier, he enrolled in law at the University of Queensland, later completing articles of clerkship with King & Gill.

Admitted as a solicitor on March 18, 1952, just over a year later he became the sixth partner in the firm Morris Fletcher & Cross (later Minter Ellison).

Within a further 18 months he started his own practice.

For more than four decades, Lippiatt & Co was to practice from the Manchester Unity Building in George St, Brisbane.

Over the years he had many partners. Some who went on to become very senior practitioners – including judges, counsel and solicitors, both retired and still practising – were briefed by him or passed through his doors to learn their profession as articulated clerks and solicitors.

Mr Lippiatt was the doyen of insolvency law and acted in many of the largest corporate collapses in Queensland and throughout Australia.

He was, throughout his practice, fearless, but more often than not with good reason.

During the early 1980s, he led the fight as honorary solicitor to the Friends of Raby Bay in their attempts to protect its pristine environment.

He retired from practice in May last year, after 58 years service to the law.

Despite his achievements, he never lost his warmth towards all people. From those on the Indooroopilly bus service he caught through to legal luminaries, he made a real contribution to people's lives.

The other area in which he strove fearlessly was the belief that one finds God in the garden. The strength behind this statement was not merely reflecting on the beauty of the flowers enlivening his family home year after year, but the fact that it was the product of his – and second wife Margaret's – labours and love.

They were regular winners of The Courier-Mail Garden Competition.

Mr Lippiatt's funeral was, fittingly, held at St Andrew's Anglican Church in Indooroopilly, where he worshipped for more than three decades.

He is survived by his wife Margaret, the nine children he raised and his grandchildren.

OBITUARY

Vale, James Liscombe

Yet another stalwart to Soccer was lost last Thursday, when Jim Liscombe passed away after an illness lasting some eight or nine months.

Up to the time of his death, Jim was President of both the Wynnum Soccer Club and the Wynnum and Manly District Schoolboys' Soccer Association. He was one of the only remaining two active foundation members of the Schoolboys' Association.

With nearly 40 years residence in Wynnum, Jim's chief interest was Soccer. He was one of the most ardent and hardest working members that any Club would be fortunate to have as a member.

His deeds could well be emulated by the younger generation of Soccer.

Well, Jim has gone, and together with Harold Eagleston and Mr. Cosgrove, he will be long remembered by the Schoolboys' Soccer Association.

To Mrs. Liscombe and family, the Wynnum and Manly Schoolboys' Soccer Association extends its sincere sympathy.

Vale, Jim.

A Lifetime devoted to his Family, Business and District Promotions

30.08.1960 (By Hugh G. Crofts)

As one who has known the late "Bill" Lockwood for nearly half a century, I feel I cannot let the occasion pass without paying a tribute to his memory and the part he played in the progress of the Wynnum district.

Born at Preston, England, 73 years ago, he served his apprenticeship with the printing firm of Fazackerleys.

He was married in 1911 and came to Australia that year, landing in Sydney.

He came on to Queensland and worked in the canefields and at various jobs until he came to Wynnum, at that time a small town vastly different from the thriving suburb it is today.

In 1914 he started in business as a printer, carrying on his work at first by means of a hand printing machine in a bedroom of a residence at the corner of Tingal Road and Clara Street.

His work was carried on with the assistance of Mrs. Lockwood, and in 1915 he moved to the present site in Tingal Road.

One of the first jobs, of which he was very proud, was the printing of the Schedule for the Wynnum and Manly School of Arts Flower Show, the first of its kind in the district and the forerunner of the Wynnum and Manly Agricultural, Horticultural and Industrial Society.

The combined efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood carried on the business which continued to grow, and in the early thirties their two sons, Messrs. Stan and George, joined the firm.

After the sons returned from World War II the firm name was changed to W. Lockwood and Sons, and in 1959 became W. Lockwood and Sons Pty. Ltd.

Six years ago Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood visited England for the second time (the first was in 1936) to visit relatives and to purchase new equipment for their expanding business.

The late Mr. William Lockwood, Founder of Wynnum's first printing establishment.

DISTRICT ACTIVITIES.

"Bill" was connected with the Wynnum Ambulance for 43 years, for many years as treasurer, and later as chairman, and was the last of the foundation members.

Over the years he was connected with the old Wynnum and Manly Sailing Club, and the Wynnum and Manly A.H. and I. Society. He was interested in the local Shire and Town Council activities.

He was a Past President of the Wynnum Amateur Athletic Club, Past President and Trustee of the Wynnum District Band, Past President and Life Member of the Wynnum Branch of the Royal Society of St. George, Foundation Member of the Manly Bowling Club, Trustee of the Druids Lodge, treasurer for some years of the Waterloo Bay Rescue Association, member of the Order of the Eastern Star, and of the local Chamber of Commerce. He was also connected with the Wynnum and Manly Soccer Club.

His home was always open to his friends and the respect and esteem in which he was held by the community in general was amply demonstrated on Thursday last by the attendance at the funeral service at St. Paul's Church of England, Manly, and later at the Mt. Thompson Crematorium.

Goodbye to friend

● George Lockwood

HUNDREDS of mourners packed the Mt Thompson Crematorium's East Chapel to farewell Wynnum identity George Lockwood on Monday.

The chapel was packed with family and friends and those who could not fit inside surrounded the chapel and filled the front steps.

During the eulogy Minister Ian Malens said Mr Lockwood, son of Wynnum Herald founder William Lockwood, had lived a full life and had been many things to many people but was always heavily involved in the local community.

Representatives of the Manly Bowling Club, Rotary, Probus and the Tuscan Lodge attended the funeral.

Mr Lockwood, who was 80

when he died, was born in the family print shop and worked in the newspaper and printing business for 40 years until he retired in 1970.

He was an avid sailor, loved fishing and was a member of the Darling Point 16ft Skiff Club and the Waterloo Bay Rescue Association.

Birds were another passion and he maintained aviaries.

Mr Lockwood loved rugby league, played it in his youth and followed Wynnum-Manly for decades.

In recent years he travelled to Europe and Asia with his wife Joan and toured Australia.

Mr Malens said Mr Lockwood's passing marked the end of a piece of Wynnum-Manly history. Mr Lockwood is survived by his wife Joan, son Barry and grandchildren Matthew and Kate.

Death of Mat Luke

A moment of sadness was felt by all members of Wynnum Bowls Club at the news of the passing of Mr. Mat Luke, M.B.E., received on Friday, July 27.

Mat was a member of Legislation Council, Darwin, Northern Territory, for a number of years and in the latter years made his home in Wynnum.

He was well educated and could converse on many different subjects, while his memory was of a photographic nature. He was respected by all who came in contact with him and will be missed from the bowls clubs as he was ever-ready to assist on pennant days to help keep the progressive scores.

Mat did not enjoy the best of health for some years and was unable to join in the play each week.

All bowlers join in expressing their heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved widow and family.
